Quay Quarter Tower, Sydney, Australia

From the CEO

Our 60th anniversary year has provided a time to reflect on past achievements and our pathway for the future.

We've come a long way since our beginnings in Perth, Western Australia. We've expanded into new markets and used technology to achieve things we couldn't have dreamt of in 1962. And yet, one thing that remains the same is that our greatest asset is our people. Our people have always been at the centre of our success and I know our next generation of global leaders will continue to take our business from strength to strength.

Fittingly, this year we launched our first global ESG update, consolidating our efforts across our regions and outlining our current and future focus in Environment, Social and Governance. We are embracing the opportunity to have a positive and material impact on the world around us, and aren't afraid to tackle the high hanging fruit.

So as we commemorate our anniversary, we will be celebrating 60 Years of Making at Multiplex – from the physical craftsmanship of the buildings we deliver, to making a real difference in the communities where we live and work.

We remain committed to our purpose - to construct a better future. We look forward to continuing to support our people and communities to reach their full potential, and partnering with our clients and supply chain to deliver some truly fantastic projects.

I'm proud of the legacy Multiplex has left and will continue to build for the future. Here's to another 60 Years of Making.

Our unique culture positions us to achieve our purpose, to construct a better future. It is built on a shared belief that we can outperform in everything we do, and a set of values that are ingrained in our people: We keep it real; We care about people; We are collaborative; and We have grit.

What does this mean in practice?

Our people are encouraged to be creative in their approach to work, to voice their ideas and opinions, and always ask if we can do more or better.

We are collaborative in the way we listen, share and work as a team – be it with our colleagues, clients, communities or industry. And we know the way to harness opportunities and fulfil potential is by building a strong foundation of trust in our relationships, and by being straightforward and dependable.

We truly care about each other and the world around us, and we have the staying power to make a real difference.
